

10 GRAMMAR-FOCUSED COMMUNICATION POINTS

1. Use Simple Tense for Facts and Opinions

Rule: Use simple present to express facts, habits, and strong opinions.

Example:

I understand your concern.

 What NOT to do:

I am understanding your concern.

 What TO do:

Use simple present for clarity and confidence.

2. Use “Would” for Polite Suggestions

Rule: “Would” sounds more respectful than “will”.

Example:

I would recommend this option.

 What NOT to do:

I will recommend this option. (too direct)

 What TO do:

Use would in meetings and interviews.

3. Avoid Repetition Using Pronouns

Rule: Replace repeated nouns with pronouns.

Example:

This strategy works well. It saves time.

 What NOT to do:

This strategy works well. This strategy saves time.

 What TO do:

Use it, this, that, they.

4. Prefer Active Voice in Communication

Rule: Active voice is clearer and stronger.

Example:

We completed the project on time.

 What NOT to do:

The project was completed on time.

 What TO do:

Clearly mention who did the action.

5. Use Linking Words to Show Logic

Rule: Use connectors to join ideas smoothly.

Example:

The plan is expensive; however, it is effective.

 What NOT to do:

The plan is expensive. It is effective. (no connection)

 What TO do:

Use however, because, although, therefore.

6. Use Modal Verbs for Advice and Possibility

Rule: Modal verbs reduce harshness.

Example:

You should review the document.

 What NOT to do:

You must review the document. (sounds forceful)

 What TO do:

Use should, could, might for polite tone.

7. Follow Natural English Word Order

Rule: English follows Subject–Verb–Object order.

Example:

I met him yesterday.

 What NOT to do:

Yesterday only I met him.

 What TO do:

Think in English structure, not translation.

8. Keep Sentences Short While Speaking

Rule: Short sentences reduce errors and improve clarity.

Example:

I disagree. Let me explain.

 What NOT to do:

I disagree because actually what I am thinking is...

 What TO do:

Break long thoughts into two sentences.

9. Use Articles Correctly (a / an / the)

Rule: No article for general ideas; article for specific ones.

Example:

She has experience.

She has the experience required.

 What NOT to do:

She has an experience.

 What TO do:

Learn articles with context, not rules only.

10. Pause Instead of Using Filler Words

Rule: Pauses sound confident.

Example:

(Pause) I believe this approach works.

 What NOT to do:

Actually... uh... you know...

 What TO do:

Replace fillers with silence + clear sentence.
